

BOY ACCUSED OF JEWEL THEFT

Neighbor's Son Charged With Robbery by Mrs. Elwood

RETURNS THE LOOT

Claims Older Man Promised Him Reward to Carry Out the Scheme

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 4.—Chas. Cole, 21, son of a Tulsa family, who was charged with robbing Mrs. James Elwood of a lot of valuable jewelry on Thursday night, returned the loot to her on Friday morning.

The boy suggested to Mrs. Elwood that he would carry out the robbery for her, and she agreed. Mrs. Elwood, who is 65 years old, was at home when the boy came to her door. She told him that she had a lot of jewelry and that she would give him a reward of $100 if he would steal it for her. The boy agreed and took the jewelry to his home. He then returned the jewelry to Mrs. Elwood on Friday morning.

Although Mrs. Elwood had faintly when she learned that her jewels had disappeared, it was not an account of lack of nerve. She jumped from the bed and grappled with the boy, taking the revolver from him and pointing it at him. She compelled him to return the jewelry to her. She then called the police and the boy was arrested.

Young Bass claims that Cole promised him to supply money for him to leave the country if he would help with the robbery and give him a certain ring which was among the plunder. Bass secured the ring he used from the Cole home. The jewelry was especially valuable as it was heirloom handed down through the family for 100 years.

Clyde Cole is a brother of the nightwatchman in Okemah, and Bass is the son of Reverend Bass, a minister of the Southern Methodist church in this county, and are highly respected in Okemah and vicinity.
